What is The Foundations Series?

Created by Brian Balmages, The Foundations Series consists of warm-ups and technique set to amazing movie soundtrack accompaniments for band and string ensembles.

Revolutionize Fundamental Skill Practice with Foundations

2X Practice Time

Students engaging with Foundations have been shown to rack up twice the amount of practice time.

Focus on Fundamentals

With exercises specifically focused on skills students need to know and practice daily, practice is productive and fun.

Support for Multiple Skill Levels

There is something for every level of student in Foundations—from first notes to advanced techniques, range builders, and more.

The Foundations Series supports what you are already teaching!

Pro-tips for classroom use

1

Use your projector and/or print (free) individual parts for students to keep with their other music.

2

Connect to your speaker system to play along with engaging soundtracks during class time.

Teacher-tested Foundations ideas

- Supplement method books and reinforce critical concepts with pedagogically-sound Foundations exercises.
- Learn exercises in class or lessons without soundtracks first, then add it in for a fun reward for great effort.
- Encourage students to explore exercises on their own.
- Create a playlist of skills or exercises that students can explore individually.
- "Tease" a fun exercise during class time by playing it on your projector screen but then encouraging students to try it on their own at home.
- Culminate learning an exercise or group of exercises by having a "dress up and play" day or event with students.
